Customized Programs

Customized English and Pre-Academic Programs

For more than 35 years, we have been providing the highest quality educational and training programs to universities and organizations throughout the world. Our close and active relationships with departments and colleges on the UC Davis campus have led to a number of cooperative projects that combine training in several areas. One recent example is our work with a Japanese research and graduate university and the UC Davis College of Life Sciences to provide a program of English instruction—tutorials in research-paper writing and presentations—and participation in the College's graduate seminars. We also receive Fulbright scholars into our Intensive English Program every year, and we run the Humphrey Fellows Scholars Pre-academic Orientation and Training Program, one of only three universities in the United States, every summer. There are many ways in which we can work with our overseas partners to customize programs that specifically meet their needs.

Sample programs include:

- Introduction to Higher Education and Universities in the U.S.
- Communication and Culture
- Business English
- Test Preparation (TOEFL and TOEIC) and Accent Improvement
- Presentation Skills Seminars for Scholars and Faculty Development
- English for Medical Professionals
- Pre-academic Orientation and Training Programs for Hubert Humphrey Fellowship and Fulbright Grant Scholars
- Pre-service, In-service and Train-the-Trainer Training in English Language Teaching
- English classes combined with academic study (e.g., nutrition, horticulture, engineering, business and management)
- English for Legal Professionals

Teaching English as a Foreign Language (TEFL) Program

The IEPP has provided customized teacher training for international clients for many years. We have hosted pre-service, in-service and teacher-trainer training for short-term programs. These programs have combined English language training, U.S. cultural study, classroom seminars, laboratory observations, practical classroom training and reflective yet participatory models of teacher education. Seminar topics include:

- Methodology, Proficiency and Approaches to Learning Styles
- Teacher/Learner Roles and Relationships
- Textbook/Materials Evaluation, Adaptation and Development
- Correction Techniques
- Evaluation and Testing
- Classroom Organization and Management
- Classroom Observation
- Teacher Practicum
- Lesson and Course Planning
- Teaching the Receptive Skills
- Teaching the Productive Skills
- Integrating the Four Skills
- Teaching Grammar
- Teaching Pronunciation
- Teaching Vocabulary
- Teaching Culture
- CALL and Other Teaching Aids
- Software and Other Resources
- Continuing Professional Development
- Proposal Writing/Conference Presentations
- Team Teaching

Participants have daily access to both our Multimedia Resource Center and a resource library, as well as to observation and discussion of ESL classes in a wide range of student communities.

UC DAVIS EXTENSION CLASSES ON CAMPUS

We also offer professional Extension courses on the UC Davis campus in areas such as Business, Marketing, Leadership, Mediation and Web Design. Students must either be in advanced level (700 or 800) at the International English Program or have 550 TOEFL scores. Please check our website for classes being offered.

KEY POINT Online learning courses when and where you want.

Options for Further Study

Students reaching advanced levels of proficiency may also continue their academic studies in a number of ways. You may apply to community colleges and universities (our advisors can help you with this, see page 7). You may also enroll in UC Davis Extension's Bridge Program for up to a year of academic study at UC Davis (see page 10). You may even want to take Extension courses offered on the UC Davis campus with other international students or our professional certificate courses in Sacramento during the evenings or on weekends with Californians.

Academic Oversight

International participants receive support, advising and academic oversight from the International Programs office to ensure they maintain their full-time student status. Students taking professional courses must be independent and ready to be part of an external community through their own efforts. Their classmates have jobs, families and other commitments. Most classes are held at Extension's Sutter Square Galleria in downtown Sacramento during the evening, daytime or on the weekend.

Online Learning Courses for Study at Home

UC Davis Extension has developed a strong online learning portfolio over the past five years. It now possesses a breadth of courses and certificate programs that can be accessed throughout the world. International Programs can design hybrid programs that include online curriculum with traditional on-site instruction, based on both internal university strengths and the current needs of its international clients. Online learning program areas include:

- Agriculture
- Brewing
- Business Analysis
- Business and Management
- Construction Management
- Education
- Energy Resource Management
- Food Science
- Health Sciences
- Information Technology
- Project Management
- Spanish
- Sports Marketing
- Viticulture
- Website Design
- Winemaking

Professional Certificate Programs—Academic Year

UC Davis Extension offers several outstanding certificates of interest to international students. Primarily directed to a local U.S. audience on a part-time evening basis, these courses provide rigorous post-graduate coursework for working professionals who wish to advance their careers or develop new areas of expertise. With careful course planning, these certificates can be completed in nine months (late September-early June). For holders of the F-1 visa, planning must include English and/or campus classes to maintain full-time student status (12 units per academic quarter). Some certificates offer summer courses as well. The following certificates have been approved for international participants:

- Accounting
- Business Analysis
- Construction Management
- Human Resource Development and Management
- Labor-Management Relations
- Marketing and Public Relations
- Project Management

Design Your Own Certificate

UC Davis Extension offers innovative courses in a wide range of subject areas, such as Information Technology, IT Management, Education, Land Use and Environmental Planning, TESL and even Professional Brewing. Working with an international student advisor, you can choose courses from as many as three certificate programs to create your own Customized Certificates. Visit our website at www.extension.ucdavis.edu/certificates for detailed information.

GRADUATE PROGRAMS

The following graduate programs, jointly administered by the School of Law and UC Davis Extension, enable master's degree candidates to earn a quality University of California education. By successfully completing the degree, participants can earn credits needed for eligibility to practice law in the United States.

Summer International Commercial Law LL.M.

July–August annually over three to five consecutive summers of study

This innovative part-time program enables working legal professionals to earn an LL.M. degree by spending three to five consecutive summers in intensive study at the UC Davis School of Law. One of the only degrees of its kind, the part-time aspect of this master's degree program provides an attractive opportunity for busy lawyers and judges who cannot leave their practices for a year or more to pursue an advanced legal degree.

Master of Laws (LL.M.) Program

August to May of each year

The LL.M. (Master of Laws) Program is a full-time graduate program that allows each student to develop expertise in a chosen area of particular interest, engage in special projects or original research under the direction of a faculty member and obtain a basic knowledge of the U.S. legal system.
