Sharpen Your Pencils!
New Comprehensive Program in Non-Fiction Writing at UC Davis Extension

Davis, Calif.—The market for non-fiction writers is growing! The UC Davis Extension Specialized Studies Program in Non-Fiction Writing will prepare you to take your place in this expanding field. The four course series is designed to coach you in the fundamental skills required to polish your writing, as well as to meet the particular requirements of editors and publishers. The courses cover English usage, interviewing and research techniques, organizing your project and preparing materials for submission to publishers. The culminating seminar offers you the opportunity to write and submit your work under the guidance of a seasoned published author. Courses begin in winter 2007. Attend our free information session on January 9, 2007 from 6-7 p.m. in Sacramento at the Sutter Square Galleria, 2901 K St. to learn about the expanding field of non-fiction writing. Learn about program coursework, requirements and get answers to frequently asked questions. For more information or to be notified when courses have been scheduled, visit us online at www.extension.ucdavis.edu/arts, email us at artsinfo@unexmail.ucdavis.edu, or call us at (800) 752-0881.
