UC Davis Executive Program Primes Senior-Level Managers to Meet Real-World Challenges

Davis, Calif.—UC Davis Extension is presenting its 34th annual UC Davis Executive Program. This highly interactive and energizing seminar series provides senior-level leaders with innovative concepts and practices to maintain their competitive edge and become catalysts for positive organizational change and growth.

The 2009 UC Davis Executive Program features ten weeks of engaging one-day workshops addressing the increasingly complex challenges executives face in today's turbulent business climate. The program begins on Thursday, March 12, with a look at what leads individuals to cooperate and compete with one another, and how our perceptions affect our independence and interdependence. Additional workshops hone in on areas of leadership development such as Facilitative Leadership, Leadership Through Innovation, Leadership Communication, Leadership Styles/Efficacy, Cultivating Leadership, Leading Change, Acting the Part and Ethical Leadership.

- UC Davis Executive Program
- March 12-May 14, Thurs., 1:30-8:30 p.m.
- Sacramento, Sutter Square Galleria, 2901 K St.

UC Davis Executive Program seminars are led by top business experts, including organizational and community leadership specialist Robert Smith, Ph.D.; conflict resolution specialist Carolyn Penny, J.D.; executive leadership specialist Gene Crumley, M.Div.; and systems change specialist Douglas Styles, Psy.D.
